Overview and Presenters:

Coaching the Unconscious Mind

Metaphors exist everywhere in our language, we use them to describe, and make sense of the world around us. However, they can also be a coach's magic wand, sprinkling light and creating lasting change, easily and effortlessly at a deep unconscious level.

This professional development session will focus on how to incorporate, even more magnificent metaphors into your sessions, with the intent of coaching, your clients' unconscious mind. Find out how a paddling pool can help someone dealing with conflict in a relationship, or a skipping rope allow someone to let go of something they'd been holding onto.

Our facilitators Brenda Ratcliff and Lynley Austen are both active members of the NLP community, being trainers, supervisors, and coordinators of the Wellington regional group, and will gently guide you along the exciting path of metaphors. Pick up new gems along the way, to add to your own metaphor kit, and experience the joy of the journey, in this practical and uplifting session.
